

The Episcopal Campus Ministry (ECM) at Randolph-Macon College welcomes all Episcopalians and all who are seeking Christ. This is a ministry for the students, staff and faculty at Randolph-Macon College. This ministry is a part of the Outreach from St. James the Less Episcopal Church in Ashland, Virginia. It is being re-established as a part of the Randolph-Macon College Campus Ministries Council. We invite you to join us.

Some very important points about what we are and what we are offering that are foundational to our purpose are:

- We are offering students a church home while away from their home church.
- We are offering a parish of people seeking to be supportive and caring for students, faculty, and staff.
- Our priest is offering a relationship that is supportive, caring, and encouraging.
- Our committee is offering efforts to ease the stresses of college, to make it easier for students to give attention to their spiritual life, and to provide some fun, refreshment, and involvement with "the locals."
- Our ministry is a part of R-MC's concern for the whole student as they go through these formative years of young adulthood.

With love in Christ,

Rev. David T. Anderson, PhD Priest in Charge
